

January 8, 2016

To Whom It May Concern:

Mr. Wade White presented his program titled "Measured by Character" to our entire high school student body in the Fall of 2015. His message and program were inspiring and meaningful. Students today need to hear more messages like Measured by Character where they are told that they matter and the choices they make leave a legacy. Mr. White's emotional message is one that all teenagers can relate to and it will help them understand how precious their life is.

As a high school principal it is important to me that we not only prepare students academically but that we also help them understand the impact they have on those around them. Mr. White's message does just that. Students were challenged to think about their actions and whether they were making a positive impact. Students were reminded that no matter what their choices have been, they can make a change. And finally students were asked to make a commitment to choose to live life based on good character and sign a public pledge. The response was amazing.

I would like to thank Mr. White and his team for providing such a powerful message and interactive program to both our students as well as our parents. I highly recommend this program to anyone who is looking to help young people understand the imprint they are making on their world.

Sincerely,

Renee Pentecost
Principal
Little Elm High School